

Story 11

The Fox and the Hyena

Once upon a time a hyena and a fox were neighbors. The hyena and the fox owned many different animals (like humans own animals), but the fox had less than the hyena. The fox made the hyena love her, and after awhile the hyena asked the fox to marry him. She quickly said yes, and they got married.

One day the fox left home while the hyena was sleeping. She went to the lion who needed someone to take care of his animals for the day because he was tired. The fox asked the lion, "Are you tired today?"

The lion said, "Yes, I'm tired."

The fox spoke softly and sweetly to the lion. "Go get some sleep. I'll keep your animals for the day."

The lion said, "Will you watch them really well?"

"Oh, yes I will," said the fox."

The fox ate the lion's fattest sheep. Then she took a little meat, and returned home where the hyena was still sleeping. When she went into her house she spread some blood from the meat on the sleeping hyena's mouth. Then she ran back to the lion's animals. The lion came a little while after, while the fox was watching the animals. He counted the animals, and he saw that the fattest sheep was gone. The lion asked the fox what happened to the sheep, and she said, "The hyena ate it. I tried to protect it, but I couldn't."

The lion ran very fast to find the hyena. He saw the blood on the hyena's mouth, and believed what the fox said. The lion killed the hyena. The fox then had all the animals, and she got rid of her husband.

Lesson: Never trust a greedy person.

Story 11
The Fox and the Hyena

A Play

Time: A long time ago

Place: The grasslands of Somalia

Characters:                   Narrator           Hyena
                                  Fox                 Lion

Narrator: Once upon a time a hyena and a fox were neighbors. They both owned a flock of sheep, but the hyena's flock was larger than the fox's. The fox didn't like the hyena, but she pretended to like him. Soon the fox and the hyena were married, and their flocks were joined together. One day the fox quietly left home while the hyena was asleep. She went to the lion who was guarding his sheep.

Fox: Hello, Lion. You look tired today. Would you like me to take care of your sheep?

Lion: Yes, I'm tired.

Fox: Go to bed. I'll take care of your sheep for the day.

Lion: Will you watch them really well?

Fox: Oh, yes I will. I'll watch so carefully.

Narrator: The lion goes to sleep. The fox kills the lion's fattest sheep. The fox returns home, where the hyena was still sleeping. She spread the sheep's blood on the sleeping hyena's paws and mouth. She quickly ran back to the lion's animals, just before the lion woke up.

Lion: (Counts his sheep)

What happened to the fattest sheep?

Fox: The hyena ate it. I tried to protect it, but I couldn't.

Narrator: The lion ran very fast to find the hyena. He sees the blood on the hyena's mouth and he roars. The hyena wakes up.

Lion: Hyena, get up! I'm going to kill you.

Hyena: No, please. I've been asleep all day. Ask fox, my wife.

Lion: I don't believe you. Look at the blood on your paws and your face. You are guilty.

Narrator: That was the end of the hyena, and the fox got both flocks of sheep for herself.
